

Politics and Policyholders

ACME News

United Policyholders is a 501(c)(3) public benefit corporation, which means we can't endorse or oppose candidates for public office. But without a doubt – the outcomes of elections impact our work in many ways: Partisan elected officials choose the judges that preside over insurance matters. The decisions that judges make have a huge impact on insurance company decision-making, and in turn the people we serve. In the vast majority of states, the Governor appoints the head of the state agency that regulates insurance. If an elected State Governor doesn't believe in regulating businesses, they tend to appoint Commissioners who share that view. Here's an example. If an elected State Governor believes in regulating businesses, they tend to appoint pro-consumer, pro-active regulators. Here's an example.

The information presented in this publication is for general informational purposes and is not a substitute for legal advice. If you have a specific legal issue or problem, United Policyholders recommends that you consult with an attorney. Guidance on hiring professional help can be found in the "Find Help" section of www.uphelp.org. United Policyholders does not sell insurance or certify, endorse or warrant any of the insurance products, vendors, or professionals identified on our website.

Source: <https://uphelp.org/politics-and-policyholders/> Date: July 17, 2024