

The Great Shake Out: Drop, Cover and Hold On!

United Policyholders will be participating in The Great California ShakeOut, and we hope you will too. What we do now, before a big earthquake, will determine what our lives will be like afterward. The ShakeOut is a statewide earthquake drill that will occur in houses, businesses, and public spaces throughout California at 10:20 a.m. on October 20, 2011.

The Great Debate: Insure or “go bare”?

Only about ten percent of California homeowners have earthquake insurance – few renters have this protection. Most people look at the 10-15% deductible and conclude it’s not worth the cost. But because another severe earthquake is likely to hit California, we encourage consumers to make an informed decision before going bare. Consider your equity, the extent of possible damage to your home due to where and how it’s built, and the money that would be available to cover repairs/rebuilding. Get a current price quote for the insurance – then make the decision. Use our Earthquake Insurance Shopping Guide and Buying tips for homeowners and renters. Don’t delay — prepare today!

Advocacy and Action

UP recognizes earthquake insurance is just too expensive for many homeowners, and we are working to change this. UP is part of a broad and growing coalition that supports federal legislation that will reduce the cost of EQ insurance by about 40 percent, and cut deductibles in half.
